5th Sunday of the year

9th February 2014

Dear Parishioners,

I'm sure we are familiar with the phrase "street angel, house devil?" The first place I have to practise my Christian vocation is within my own home, among my own family. In terms of the metaphors used in today's Gospel, I have to ask myself: How am I a light to the world? How am I salt of the earth? Am I a life-giving person, who helps preserve and encourage goodness in others, and do I always lighten the way and ease the burden for others? We can so easily slip into the habit of taking others for granted and, while we might be concerned about atrocities and famine in far-flung places, we could completely overlook those who are closest to us.

There is one dimension of gospel living that we can easily overlook and is captured in the well known lines:

"You write a new page of the gospel each day, through the things that you do and the words that you say. People read what you write, whether faithful or true. What is the gospel according to you?"

I'm sure we've come across people who are fully human and fully alive. They seem to be constantly alert and forever sensitive to the needs of others, especially those who are out of sorts, or hurting or uncomfortable. Because they themselves are fully alive, they transmit light and life to those around them. In his description of the Last Judgement, Jesus has such people asking the question, "Lord, when did we see you hungry or thirsty, or naked or lonely and come to your help?" Because of the kind of people they are, they are not even conscious of the good they are doing. For them, to act in such a way has become a way of being. Such people are undoubtedly the salt of the earth, and the light of the world.

May we encounter such people in the coming week and, more importantly, may we become such people.

With every blessing,
Colum Curry PP

Vocation Prayer

Lord, make me a better person, more considerate towards others, more honest with myself, more faithful to you. Make me generous enough to want to do your will, whatever it may be. Help me find my true vocation in life and grant that through it, I may find happiness myself and bring happiness to others. We pray through Christ our Lord, Amen.
