Mission Sunday

19 October 2014

Dear Parishioners,
Once upon a time the word Missions conjured up memories of two magazines that brightened up the drab world of many a classroom. The "Africa" magazine and its older sister "The Far East" allowed us, as children long ago, to escape for a little while the daily routine of sums and spellings. As we flicked through the missionary pages, we were amused by Pudsy Ryan's atrocious spellings and we were fascinated by stories of White priests and Black babies in faraway places. At home we were reminded that the black babies were the ones who would gladly eat the food we didn't like! Their beautiful, but sometimes hungry faces, stared at us from collection boxes on shop counters. There were prayers for the missions in the "trimmings of the Rosary" and now and again a priest home from the missions would say Mass and confuse us all by reading out the notices at the wrong time. And behind all of that gentle publicity we quietly admired those men and women from various parts of Ireland who had left family and homeland to go and work among peoples whose names and language they didn't even know.

It was only later we realised that the Irish people were indeed a truly missionary people and going out to other peoples and countries was something that had been part of our tradition for hundreds of years. How else could you explain the thousands of young women and men who joined missionary orders and went to all parts of the world to preach the Good News about Jesus Christ?

Today is Mission Sunday. In his message for this day Pope Francis asks us to reflect on the joy of the Gospel. "Those who encounter Jesus and accept his offer of salvation are set free from sin, sorrow, inner emptiness and loneliness. With Christ joy is constantly born anew". So our first task is to proclaim the Gospel message and enable others to do likewise, especially those working in difficult situations.

With every blessing,
Colum Curry PP
