Dear Parishioners,

The first days of September bring to mind William Shakespeare's observation about "the whining school-boy, with his satchel and shining morning face, creeping like snail, unwillingly to school".

In the coming days and weeks many children and young people will face new situations, reluctantly or otherwise – starting nursery or primary school, moving to post-primary or university, beginning an apprenticeship, embarking on a new career. We wish all of them every success and we pray God's blessing on all who will accompany them. We think especially of teachers and those who work in our schools; may the Lord guide them and protect them with his love.

In that context I wish Fr Ryan McAleer every blessing as he embarks on his new role within the Archdiocese as Diocesan Adviser for Primary Religious Education. Having ploughed that furrow for fourteen years, I know well the challenges and privileges that lie before him. I have no doubt the teachers and pupils in the one hundred and seventy schools between Magherafelt and Drogheda will give him a warm welcome and co-operate with him in the noble task of handing on the gift of faith.

In his short time with us as curate in Dungannon parish, Fr Ryan has endeared himself to many people, especially the young, and has inspired all of us with his energy, enthusiasm and priestly example. Personally, I want to thank him for his co-operation at all times and his generosity of spirit. Thankfully, he will continue to live in Dungannon so in one sense he is not going away. On behalf of the other priests and the people of the parish, I wish Fr Ryan every blessing with his new responsibilities and a sense of personal fulfilment in his future role.

I also extend a warm welcome to Fr Aidan McCann, who has been appointed curate to Dungannon parish. Fr Aidan, is a native of Cookstown and was ordained recently in St Patrick's Cathedral, Armagh along with Fr Brian Slater. It is a privilege, once again, to have one of the youngest priests in the diocese work with us and we wish him God's blessing for a happy and fruitful ministry.

In this Year of Consecrated Life, we continue to pray for vocations and hope that some of our young, or maybe not so young, will consider the priesthood or religious life.

With every blessing,

Colum Curry PP
